WAVELAND WANDERINGS

by
GEORGETTE B. HALL

Mr. Robert Geiger spent Tuesday, February 12, in Jackson,
Miss., where he went on a business trip. While there, he was interviewed by Mrs. Mimi Neal, fea-ful in his paintings of portraits.

This column would like to again welcome him to Waveland and wish him continued success in his

To be eligible for the scholarship, a student must be a home economics major at MSCW, with two or more courses in foods and nutrition. The student with the highest marks shall be chosen.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

IDA LAURA GARRAWAY
Home Demonstration Agent
Hancock County

With everything you buy, it pays to read the labels.

They will tell you many things related to the use, care and life of the object you are thinking of buying... is the garment all wool... or a combination of wool and a man-made fiber... is the fabric you are selecting washable and colorfast... is the size box of cereal or a larger one a better buy... is the meat properly inspected and graded... and on and on for all sorts of furnishings, appliances, foods, clothing.

It even pays to read the labels on floor wax containers. If you put a liquid polishing wax or a paste wax on asphalt tile or many types of rubber type, you are inviting the asphalt surfaces to pit and the rubber to soften. They contain a naphtha like solvent.

As you read the labels you will find there are three kinds of floor waxes—paste, liquid, polishing and self-polishing. Reliable manufacturers list on the containers the kinds of floors on which the wax should be used. If your floor is not listed, select another type of wax.

Paste wax gives greatest protection on a soft glow of wood floors, inlaid linoleum and Vinyl tile. Liquid polishing wax is also excellent for the same purpose and easy to apply.

Self polishing wax is water soluble and is the kind recommended for asphalt and many kinds of rubber. It may be used on inlaid linoleum, enameled felt base and vinyl. You may use it on wood or cork only if the surface is sealed with a sealer, shellac or varnish and the finish is in good condition.

Leading fashion designers have added at least an inch to the length of skirts for day wear. This brings them to 13 or 14 inches from the floor.

For the day and evening, most hemlines are 8 to 10 inches from the floor.

But whatever fashion says, the clothing specialists say the best idea is to determine the length that is most flattering to you.

FLANK STEAK ROLLIES
For this cold weather dish that you will find, we believe, both different and delicious, you will need:

1 flank steak (about 1½ pounds)
2 cups cooked, mixed vegetables, frozen or canned
1½ pound salt pork

First, cut the salt pork into a strip about 1½ inch thick. Put pork in center of flank steak and roll steak over salt pork. Fasten roll with poultry pins at about 1-inch intervals along seam. Slice rolls between pins to make rollies about 1-inch thick.

Brown rollies on both sides in a large skillet. Cover and cook over low heat about 50 minutes or until meat is tender. Spread mixed vegetables over rollies, cover and simmer 15 minutes longer or until vegetables are done. If desired, gravy may be made from the drippings left in skillet.

This recipe makes 12 rollies.

KITCHEN TRICKS
Biscuits are easier to cut and you will have less waste if you slice the dough into squares with a sharp knife instead of cutting with round cutter.

To frost a cake easily, place the baked cake on the revolving stand of an electric mixer and gently swirl it around as you spread the cake frosting.

$639.00 ALLOTTED TO HANCOCK COUNTY IN REDUCING PLANTING
Mr. Fitzhugh Lee, Chairman of the Hancock County ASC, announced that agreements to enter into the Acreage Reserve Program will be accepted beginning at 8 a. m. Monday, January 28, 1957, in the ASC office at Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. $639.00 have been allotted to Hancock County for farmers who are interested in reducing their planting of cotton below their 1957 farm allotment. These funds will be used on the basis of the first ones to enter into agreements will be the first ones to share in the funds.

As long as the money lasts, farmers who are interested and are willing to comply with the provisions of the contract will be permitted to enter into contracts for as much as 10 acres of 30% of their 1957 allotment. This means that any farmer who has an allotment anywhere between .1 acre and 33.3 acres can put in the acreage reserve any number of acres up to 10 acres. If the 1957 farm allotment is more than 33.3 acres the farmer can put up to 30% of such allotment in the acreage reserve.

Farmers who desire to put more than the maximum acreage in the acreage reserve can at the time they sign an agreement indicate how many additional acres they want to take out of cotton. If, after all farmers have had an opportunity to put the maximum in the acreage reserve, there is any money left over, then following the same first-come, first-served principle, they will be given an

NATIONAL SAVE YOUR VISION WEEK TO BE OBSERVED MAR. 29

National Save Your Vision Week will be celebrated March 29 with the Mississippi Optometric Association sponsoring the observance in the state.

Optometrists in this state are scheduled to appear before Par-opportunity to put additional acres in the average reserve.

"There are a number of restrictions that farmers need to know about," Mr. Lee said. "First, the farmer who agrees to reduce his production of cotton in 1957 must indicate an acreage of cropland on his farm that will be set aside. On this acreage the farmers must agree that he will not harvest a crop from it until December 31, 1957; he will not permit livestock to graze on it until after December 31, 1957; and he will not plant any crop that can be harvested before December 31, 1957."

Mr. Lee stated that a farmer may plant certain protective cover on the acreage reserve but it will have to be a cover that is approved by the ASC county committee and it cannot be grazed, cut for hay, or harvested in any way.

Another restriction Mr. Lee mentioned concerns bringing new land into cultivation. He said that since the whole idea of a program is to reduce the production of surplus crops, the Secretary of Agriculture has ruled that if a farmer signs an agreement to reduce the production of cotton, he cannot, without violating his contract, clean up new ground or bring in idle land and produce a crop on it in 1957 unless the land was classified as cropland at the time he signed an agreement. In other words he can only crop those acres he cropped in 1956 less the number of acres he puts in the acreage reserve.

Mr. Lee pointed out that March 1, 1957 is the last date the county committee can enter into agreements but since the money may run out before that time farmers who are interested should remember that beginning at 8:00 a. m. January 28, 1957 this county committee will begin accepting agreements.

"We feel farmers are just as interested as we are in seeing that each cotton farmer gets a fair chance in the program," Mr. Lee said. "For that reason we cannot accept a single agreement prior to that time. It will take us several days to train our employees and get ready to serve farmers as they would have us serve them, so please do not ask us to let you sign an agreement before the official date."

MISSISSIPPI INCOME TAX LAW

WHAT IS GROSS INCOME?

Legislation in the effort to bring income tax law in line with the Federal law, the State of Mississippi has passed a law which will be effective January 1, 1956. The law states that "the term gross income" means all income derived from any source, whether or not it is derived from a business, profession, vocation, trade, business, commerce or service, and includes interest, dividends, securities or the income from any business carried on for profit, or gains, profits, and income derived from any source whatever.

It will be seen from the above that every gain which can be determined, regardless of its nature, is to be included in gross income for Mississippi State income tax purposes. For that reason, the Legislature immediately acted in the most liberal of the law, stating that items which are to be included from gross income, they are:

1. Proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the insured.
2. Proceeds representing return of premiums paid on a policy by the insured. (A return in excess of premiums paid is income.)
3. The value of inheritances, bequests or gifts. (But not the income therefrom.)
4. Interest upon the obligations of the United States, the State of Mississippi, or the political subdivisions of this state.
5. Proceeds received from health and accident insurance; damages received as the result of such sickness or injury; or disability pensions paid by the United States.
6. Income received by a philanthropic, religious, educational, or similar organization when the income is used exclusively to further its purposes.
7. Income of a domestic corporation when earned from sources without the State of Mississippi. Such sources shall be placed

STENNIS URGES FOREST LOANS

The small forest lands should provide a very substantial part of the raw material needed for the growing forest industries, U. S. Senator John Stennis said in support of his bill which provides for forest loans.

There are a few items which have caused some taxpaying difficulty. One is "proceeds of return of premiums paid on a policy by the insured." This means that if an individual purchases an annuity or a life insurance contract, upon its maturity or surrender any sums received in excess of the amounts paid are to be included in gross income. The sums paid as premiums are to be excluded from gross income.

Item number 4 above clearly indicates that interest received upon the obligations of any state other than Mississippi, or any government of any country other than the United States, should be included in gross income.

Item No. 8 above is limited in its application, and was introduced so as to serve the ends of equity. It means that income shall not be taxed as dividend income the second time for Mississippi income tax purposes. All dividends are taxable, unless the corporation paying such dividends has included in the measure of its income tax liability dividends paid out of the income which has already been subjected to a Mississippi income tax.

Because of the greatly increased exemption, service pay is no longer excluded from gross income. No enlisted men and very few officers will be required to pay an income tax unless they have income from sources other than service pay.

Nonresident individuals are required to report all income from services performed property owned, or business operated within the State of Mississippi. Such nonresidents are allowed a part or a percentage of the total exemptions and credits allowed to residents.

This exemption and credit is measured by the relation that the Mississippi gross income bears to the total gross income. Every single person whose income exceeds $4,000.00 and every married couple whose joint income exceeds $8,000.00 is urged to file a report. Statement of the income and deductions claimed will suffice, and will prevent correspondence at a later date. It will reduce the cost of administration. It will be a definite contribution to the improvement of the service which the Commissioner of Income Tax and his staff are trying to render.

Schoolroom Progress USA To Appear in Jackson MARCH 5-11

Mississippians will be given an opportunity to view one of the most outstanding educational exhibits ever assembled in America when Schoolroom Progress USA appears in Jackson, March 5-11, 1956.

Schoolroom Progress, U. S. A., traveling in two specially designed railroad cars depicts the contrast of American schoolrooms of yesterday with those of today.

The exhibition is cooperatively sponsored by the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village of Dearborn, Michigan, and the Encyclopedia Americana, Mississippi Power and Light Company will sponsor Schoolroom Progress U. S. A. for its six-day stay in Mississippi.

Schoolroom Progress U. S. A. started its tour of the United States in Washington, D. C., in September, 1955. It will visit approximately 35 major cities per year over a period of three to five years.

It has three basic purposes—to encourage an ever-increasing interest on the part of young Americans in teaching as a profession, to pay tribute to the contribution of the American teacher to our American way of life, and to increase interest in our schools, and school facilities. As such it merits and has the cooperation and enthusiastic support of educational, civic and business organizations on both a local and national level.

The exhibition travels, and is exhibited in two specially designed railroad cars containing both heating and air conditioning facilities for the comfort of visitors.

These cars were donated to the exhibition by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company. In each exhibition city, these cars are exhibited in the railroad station or at a convenient station siding, much in the same manner as was the Freedom Train.

In fact, Schoolroom Progress U. S. A. has been called the second Freedom Train—the freedom train of Education. It has already been seen by hundreds of thousands of persons, and it is estimated that each year more than one million Americans will have gone through the exhibition. During the summer the exhibition is shown at the Henry Ford Museum, Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Michigan.

The entire exhibit features authentic settings, to show the tremendous advances made in America's educational profession. It exhibits a frontier log-cabin schoolhouse, a replica of the McGuffey type school of the early 1800's. This schoolroom contains an open fireplace, whale oil lamps, split-log benches, a birch rod switch, slates, quill pens, McGuffey readers, and many other wonderful, authentic, articles of the period.

Similarly exhibited is an American rural schoolroom of the 1870's, the "little red schoolhouse," with its kerosene lamps, wood-burning stove and other historic school equipment of the middle 19th century. It is in this classroom that the desk where Henry Ford sat and carved his initials is placed.

The city schoolroom of the 1890's is the last classroom of the nineteenth century to be shown in this section of the exhibition. Here one finds the first commercial wrought-iron and wood desks, a bamboo filament light bulbs, an early steam radiator and other materials used in the schools during this period.

Exhibits of early American books, writing implements, and other school equipment made or used by famous Americans are also exhibited in the "old section" of Schoolroom Progress U. S. A. This section of the exhibit is truly an historical "museum, on wheels."

In sharp contrast, Schoolroom Progress U. S. A. exhibits fine schoolrooms of today. The modern of classroom architecture, equipment and audio-visual devices are exhibited, along with architects' drawings and photographs of outstanding examples of today's school building and classrooms.

The five class rooms on exhibition include Kindergarten, Elementary, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, and Office Practice. These rooms have been designed by fine architects who were award winners in the American Institute of Architects Honor Awards Program. Also exhibited are prize-winning entries in the School Division of the American Institute of Architecture Honor Awards Competition.

The exhibition portrays the great progress in American educational facilities and will, it is hoped, stimulate interest and activity in our schools by an interested and enlightened public.

Since it is felt that adequate school facilities are great assets in attracting young people to the profession of teaching, the sponsors hope that the exhibition will serve this purpose.

An exhibition preview, prior to the public opening, will include special invitations to leading educators, civic officials, educational groups, business and professional leaders, and representatives of all public media.

CONGRESSIONAL SIDELIGHTS

by
CONGRESSMAN WM. M. COLMER

ARE WE HEADED FOR NATIONAL BANKRUPTCY?

In 1933 Franklin D. Roosevelt took the oath of office as President of the United States. I took my first oath of office at the same time as a Member of Congress. Candidates Roosevelt and Colmer both had run upon the same platform—a platform of economy in Government. The first major piece of legislation that President Roosevelt recommended was a bill captioned "A Bill to Preserve the Credit of the United States Government." It was a so called economy bill. Shortly after that the then President took office in a different direction. He adopted a policy of spending that has been followed by both of his successors, Truman and Eisenhower.

At the time that President Roosevelt came into office the National Debt was 22 billion dollars, today that debt is almost 278 billion dollars.

Today the interest on the National Debt is nearly twice the amount that it cost to operate the whole Federal Government 25 years ago. Again President Roosevelt in the 1932 campaign charged President Hoover with being a spendthrift. At that time the cost of Government was 4 billion dollars per annum. President Eisenhower has just sent to Congress a budget for the next fiscal year of 73.3 billion dollars.

Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey have said this proposed spending for the next year is too high. Other leaders in Government, particularly in Congress, have likewise expressed the hope that it could be trimmed. But it is going to take something more than lip service if Congress cuts this budget back.

It seems that every year and certainly every Administration a new field of Federal spending is embarked upon. All of this is on the theory that the Government is doing something for the people. No one ever seems to stop to realize that all of this money must come from the taxpayers' pocket and sometimes we wonder if the taxpayers themselves realize that the people still support the Government and not as so many seem to think, the Government supports the people.

The tremendous National Debt and these ever-increasing Government expenditures are tremendously serious within themselves.

Williamson-Foley Wedding Solemnized

Miss Enid Foley, step-daughter of Mrs. Albert S. Foley and the late Mr. Foley of New Orleans became the bride Saturday, Feb. 8, of Mr. John Williamson, New Orleans, at a Nuptial Mass in Our Lady of the Lourdes Catholic Church.

Given in marriage at the double ring ceremony by her brother Gerald L. Foley of Houston, Texas, the bride was charmingly groomed in white tulle, fashioned on fitted lines with flaring skirt, worn with a fingertip length veil of silk illusion. A cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with white orchids with satin ribbon streamers ending in lovers knots completed the stunning picture made by the slender auburn haired bride.

A sister-in-law, Mrs. Donald I. Foley of New Orleans was the brides only attendant. She wore a period gown of canary yellow silk organza and carried yellow cymbidium orchids. A small head-dress matched the gown.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother C. J. Williamson also of New Orleans.

White gladioli and potted palms adorned the church. Nuptial music was played on the organ with several vocal solos preceding the ceremony.

Immediately following the church service a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Williamson, General Pershing Street. White blooms adorned the reception rooms of the home. The bride's table was handsome with a satin cloth edged in illusion forming a delicate setting for the exquisite wedding cake made by Mrs. Gertrude Sauzier, sister of the bride. The beautiful three tiered cake was placed on a pale ivory colored satin covered board, outlined in ruffles of illusion. Handsome roses in graduated sizes were held in graceful clusters with swirls of ivory satin ribbon. Small blooms started from the top tier of the cake, graduating to larger sizes on each downward tier, while large open roses surrounded the base of the cake. Lilies of the Valley and delicate lacy fern outlined the table. White tapers placed in silver candelabra, glowed softly.

The young couple left for a wedding trip on the Gulf Coast, and upon their return to the city will occupy an apartment on Napoleon Avenue.

For traveling the bride wore an oyster white two piece suit complemented with black hat and black accessories. An orchid from her bouquet was pinned at her shoulder.

The bride acquired a large number of friends in Hancock County, when she made her home here several years ago with her sister Mrs. Sauzier.

Attending the wedding from here were Mrs. Sauzier with her daughter Miss Marie Sauzier, her two sons Albert and John Sauzier, Miss Maureen Mitchell, Miss Laurie Curet and Mr. Robert Geiger.

Mrs. Gerald Foley accompanied her husband from Houston for the event.

RETURNS FROM VISIT - Mrs. Frank Stubbs with her baby Mary Ann and her father, Mr. Joseph Burrow returned to Bay St. Louis this past week following a visit of two weeks with Mrs. Stubbs' mother in Saldino, Miss.

Mrs. Stubbs with the baby will remain through this week in the Bay visiting with her father and brothers. She expects to be joined this week by her husband, and they will return to their Beaumont, Texas home by motor.

Col. A. C. Dietrich, staying at the college, has been doing some fishing without much success. He is a persistent fisherman and says he will keep on trying. A while back he caught a 3 1/2 pound black bass and was so thrilled that he had it mounted. It was a good job and a real memento.

Marcel (Zulu) Toca was in the Bay Wednesday meeting and mingling with old friends. He used to be a resident of the Bay but now lives in New Orleans.

Bill Cope an entertainer of note and for some time back at Martin's Bar here was in the Bay during the week. Bill an accomplished musician and fisherman was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Honey Schwall and made a trip up Jordan River last week with them. He says it seemed like old times to him. He was reminiscing about old times here was asking what became of so and so, etc.

That Stanislaus team is really going places. It is a sweet team to see in action. Better see 'em in action this week at Bay High when they participate in the week-end tournament! Good luck, boys!

The open house at Pass Christian Isles Golf Course was a real hum-dinger. The supper was out of this world and the companion ship was superb, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Adams sponsors.

Alex Cunningham, pro at the golf course states that about 30 women golfers are attending the golf classes each Tuesday at the club. These lessons are free and you ladies interested in golf should take advantage of this offer and learn the game from A to
